

The Importance of a Strong Community Assessment

Working on a number of Head Start Recompensation and Early Head Start Child Care Partnership proposals over the past few years, Heartland has had the opportunity to review many Community Assessments (CAs). We have seen some outstanding CAs, but also some that are not meeting the Office of Head Start Requirements. Because the CA is the cornerstone of annual Head Start operations, it should be both high quality and comprehensive.

The Power of a Good Community Assessment in Strengthening Your Program

- The CA should both guide and justify strategic decisions made by the grantee.
- The CA should also provide the needed data and information to use in the statement of need section of a grant, a state preschool program proposal, a foundation proposal, or any other funding request so that the document can be developed quickly and thoroughly.
- The CA should also provide meaningful data and analysis of the target population for use in local, regional, and state discussions regarding allocation of services and resources.
- The CA should include both quantitative and qualitative analysis using valid statistical data and reputable data sources.

Common Community Assessment Pitfalls Observed by Heartland Staff

- Community Assessments that do not follow the Office of Head Start guidelines to include data on all aspects of the community, do not specifically define the high need areas and/or do not calculate the number of eligible children in the service area.
- CAs with data that is not recent enough to be valid. Some data, such as census data, will be several years old, but most data sets should be updated annually to provide a more precise picture of changes to the needs and composition of the community.
- CAs that fail to analyze the community issues most impactful of children and families in poverty, as well as those that do not draw any conclusions or suggest any strategies based on the unique needs of the individual service area.

What are the Roadblocks to a Strong CA?

- Many states and communities do not house the needed data in a readily accessible manner, so the avenues to gather the most relevant data are not always obvious.
- Some consultants hired to execute CAs are not familiar enough with the Head Start, Program Performance Standards, or the needs of children and families in poverty to be able to develop a robust assessment.
- Often, CAs are updated in terms of data in some sections but not reconsidered in terms of changes to Office of Head Start guidelines and/or new needs in the community i.e. the assessment is not used as a living document as it is intended.
